The National Laadli

Media and Advertising Awards for Gender Sensitivity

2012-13

Celebrate Her Life
An Initiative By Population First

at TATA Theatre, NCPA, Mumbai on February 20th, 2014
ABOUT POPULATION FIRST

Population First (PF) is a communications and advocacy initiative for a balanced, planned and stable population. It was registered in March 2002 under the Bombay Public Trusts Act, 1950. Our key objectives are to help reduce gender imbalances in the population, sensitize the youth to gender and social development issues and work towards gender sensitive and social development oriented health and population programmes.

Laadli is Population First’s flagship campaign that addresses the gendered mindsets which discriminate against girls and women denying or abridging their rights. Laadli works to influence the three major influencers – media, advertising and youth to promote a positive image of girls and women to bring in greater gender sensitivity and equality in society.

AMCHI – “Action for Mobilization of Community and Health Initiatives” is a community health and village development project which is being implemented in 66 villages in the Shahapur Block of Thane District, Maharashtra. Our focus is on community mobilization and empowerment of women, youth and village institutions to ensure efficiency, accountability and transparency in the implementation of health and social development programmes.

Population First’s youth initiatives are implemented through Change Maker’s Clubs in colleges which aim to create space for exploring gender issues in curricular, co-curricular and extracurricular activities. Promoting facilitation skills among teachers is yet another important element of Laadli Youth Initiatives.

ABOUT LAADLI MEDIA INTERVENTION

The Laadli Media Advocacy initiatives focus on promoting gender sensitivity in the media and advertising to build a gender-just society. Population First is committed to building such a society by engaging the media and advertising in discussions on how it can shape, indeed, change such mindsets. A number of programmes have been initiated with the media, such as “Media and Gender” workshops for working and student journalists, Laadli Media Fellowships, National Creative Excellence Awards for Creative Professionals, ad analysis and interactive sessions with Creative Directors of general entertainment channels.

This year we had candid and open consultations with the Creative Directors of Advertising Agencies in collaboration with IAA and the CEOs of Media organizations in Hyderabad which helped percolate the discussion on gender sensitivity to the people who are the biggest influencers in the industry.

Two small studies were also commissioned “Drawing the line – gender sensitivity vs Creative Freedom” analyzing the ASCI decisions on indecent representation of women in advertisements and a study on gender sensitivity and equality in Media and advertising organizations. There is a lot that needs to change but with the kind of support and response we are getting, we are confident we would be able to bring about change.
The media hype post December 16 was expected to die after a few months. However, we are happy that it did not happen. The fact that we received 1700+ entries shows that it is not a fleeting concern but that the media and advertising are seriously concerned about it. It could be because there is growing intolerance towards gender inequality and violence, particularly among the young people. Media and advertising can no longer ignore it. However, it is encouraging to see that the programming and reporting are much more rigorous, honest and analytical. The fact that the jury had a tough time selecting the winners reflects the quality of entries that we received.

It is the fifth edition of the National Laadli Media and Advertising Awards and the best among the four regional award winners are chosen for the National Awards. We had received entries not just from the major cities but also from districts and difficult areas like Chhattisgarh and Kashmir. We are also happy to present the award to Madhya Pradesh Government for their very successful campaign "Hum Chhuyenge Aasman" promoting sports among girls.

From this year onwards, Laadli is instituting a special award titled "Laadli Extraordinaire" for honoring those media persons who have fought against gender violence, discrimination and have shown exemplary courage and conviction in their personal and professional life. This year's award goes to Rina Mukherji who fought against an established newspaper for gender justice. Her services were terminated when she filed a sexual harassment complaint against a senior colleague.

We are honored to present the Laadli of the Century Award to Ms. Shaukat Kaifi ji and the Lifetime Achievement Award to Ms Lalita Lajmi. They are an inspiration to a number of women.

The most perceptible change has been in the advertisements with the Tanishq, Bharat Matrimony, Havells, and Bournvita advertisements winning public appreciation and approval for breaking gender stereotypes and challenging discriminatory practices.

We have also made a beginning with the Creative Directors of the General Entertainment Channels. The spontaneous support and positive response from advertising professionals, the field level journalists, editors and media leaders is exhilarating. Every article, editorial, news feature, blog, television and radio programme done from a gender perspective is a source of inspiration for us.

We would also like to thank Tata Group of Companies for supporting the National Laadli Media and Advertising Award event, The Aditya Birla Group and United Phosphorous for supporting the regional events and UNFPA for supporting the yearlong media advocacy initiatives.

"I have been very impressed with Laadli's work not only for its commitment to the cause of the girl child but because of its effective use of mass communication to promote that cause. The annual Laadli awards for Gender Sensitivity have grown in prestige over the years and have spurred many media practitioners to focus on women's issues. For this, Laadli deserves our appreciation".

The National Awards are the culmination of the four regional awards, where the country's best are felicitated. Around 1740 entries were received from all over the country and 88 regional awards were presented to media persons from 13 languages. The National Award winners were chosen by a panel of distinguished Jury members. These nine winners come from different regions and have written in their respective languages.

The National Awards honor exceptionally talented women who have made seminal contribution to films, theatre, literature and fine arts with Laadli of the Century and Lifetime achievement awards. Apart from these we also have nominated awards for books, films and theatre.

The National Awards Event is presented by TATA. The Laadli Media Advocacy initiatives including the awards are supported by United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA).

The National Laadli Media and Advertising Awards are co-ordinated by Ms Dolly Thakore, a well known theatre personality.

“Excellent and inspiring initiative which provoked the media to look at the gender issues more sensitively. From the time it started till date there has been a massive change and improvement in the way media is covering the issue. I think Laadli has big role to play in this”.

Ms Ranjona Bannerjee, Freelance Journalist
BEST HUMAN INTEREST STORY
Garima Pankaj | Gujarat
Print Media | Grihshobha
Garima Pankaj in ‘tezabi hamla dard umar bhar ka’ has addressed the issue of acid attacks against women and the urgent need for combating this by highlighting the trauma – physical, emotional and financial, faced by survivors of acid attacks. Citing actual cases she brings out the plight of acid attack survivors and the need to work for them empathetically and calls for a range of interventions to address their needs. Garima has given a detailed analysis of the legal provisions available and provided information on various social organizations working for acid attack survivors.

BEST NEWS REPORT
S. Vijay Kumar | Tamil Nadu
Print Media | The Hindu
Vijay Kumar in his report ‘Where protectors couldn’t transcend gender’ writes about the gender discrimination faced by transgender people. Citing the story of a promising athlete who was denied a job in the police force because of being transgender, Vijay Kumar reports on how despite the Constitution providing for social justice they are being denied their basic rights. He advocates for a support system to educate and empower transgenders, so that they could be mainstreamed in the society and not pushed to the margins.

BEST INFORMATIVE FEATURE
Satya Prakash and HT Team | Delhi
Print Media | Hindustan Times
The full-page informative feature ‘Enough is Enough’ by Satya Prakash and his team highlights exploitation and subjugation of women throughout their lives. Beginning with pre-birth sex selection, the discrimination continues determining her access to education, nutrition and health care all through her life with violence being perpetrated at home, in public and workplaces. This feature goes beyond enumerating the issues and gives the readers information about legal options and redressal mechanisms available.

BEST INVESTIGATIVE REPORT
Sharmila Kalgutkar | Maharashtra
Print Media | Sakaal
Sharmila Kalgutkar’s ‘Paanch hazarat stree beej vikri’ is a shocking story about the commercialization of reproductive technologies – particularly egg donation which has serious health implications for the donors. The process of extracting a woman’s egg or harvesting of women’s eggs as it is called involves invasive methods, which cause hormonal changes harmful to their health. Sharmila reports on how earlier only married women were donating their eggs under strict medical supervision and for a high remuneration, while now for a mere Rs 5000/- young girls from lower income group are lured into selling their ova on a regular basis without being informed of the side effects.

BEST EDITORIAL
Shiv Balak Misra | Uttar Pradesh
Print Media | Gaon Connection
In his editorial ‘Bharatiya samaj me bhadta yaun utpeedan’ Shiv Balak Misra enumerates the reasons for the increasing violence against women. He brings out the fact that while there has been a lot of social and economic development in our country, we are witness to a streak of violence and recklessness amongst the youth which is manifesting itself in the increased incidences of crimes more so against women in the form of rape, domestic violence, sexual abuse etc.
BEST FEATURE - MAGAZINE
Shubhangi Swarup | Maharashtra
Print Media | Open Magazine
Shubhangi Swarup has in ‘Stealth Revolution’ written about the regressive issue of Female Genital Mutilation, widely known as FGM a practise prevalent among the members of Indian Dawoodi Bohra community. Shubhangi has very sensitively tackled this issue with interviews and discussions with women who have gone through this trauma and who are opposing this practise even at the risk of being ostracized by the community. What stands out in her feature is the courage and strength of women. One of the women who spoke on record was subsequently invited by the US Govt on an International Visitor Leadership Programme.

BEST ARTICLE - MAGAZINE
Swagata Yadav | Maharashtra
Print Media | The Week
The harmful and unethical practice of pre-birth sex selection has been brought out in detail by Swagata Yadav through her documentation of the horrific happenings at the infamous Munde Hospital in Beed. ‘Lethal Prescription’ exposes the nexus between the local authorities and the Doctors and the modus operandi used for doing sex determination etc through interviews with activists, lawyers and affected family members.

BEST INVESTIGATIVE STORY - MAGAZINE
Syed Nazakat | Delhi
Print Media | The Week
Syed Nazakat’s feature ‘Like cattle, from Kabul’ reveals the disturbing story of how Afghanistan has become a source, transit point and destination for sex trafficking. Through interviews with trafficked women both in Delhi and Kabul as well as with social workers, human rights experts and other officials/Agencies, Syed explores the reasons for trafficking, the various methods through which it is carried out, and how various Agencies are working towards combating it. His interviews with women give us a very detailed insight into how poverty makes women the easy targets of traffickers.

BEST CAMPAIGN - MAGAZINE
The Week | Kerala
Print Media
The Week started ‘Section 376’ in January 2013, as a sustained, year-long campaign against sexual violence. It is their initiative towards creating awareness on the legal aspects of rape and abuse. These series address a wide range of issues relating to rape, with the intention of making readers, police and governments better understand and prevent crimes against women. Besides dealing with the trauma of rape victims, the series has examined unprofessional, unscientific and inhuman methods of evidence collection by investigators and doctors as well as apathy shown to victims at police stations. While discussing the everyday hazards faced by girls and women, it also informs readers about precautions that they can take against sexual predators.

BEST REPORTING
Akansha Pradeep | Delhi
Electronic Media | CNN IBN
In a span of just two minutes Akansha Pradeep has sensitively documented the intrusive investigation that rape survivors in India are subjected to. Her film 'Trauma of the two finger test' captures the true story of a 26 year old rape survivor with mature tenderness and empathy bringing out the apathy and insensitive treatment that the health providers mete out to rape victims. Her film is a pointer to the urgent need to institutionalize a more humanistic approach not only among the law enforcement agencies but also among the health service providers making a strong case for banning the two finger test.
BEST INVESTIGATIVE STORY
Neha Dixit | Delhi
Electronic Media | Headlines Today
In her story 'Misogynists of Mewar' Neha Dixit reaches into the core of patriarchy by investigating the life of women in the rural hinterlands of Rajasthan who are controlled by the regressive samaaj panchayats. Through some wonderful visuals she brings out how empowerment of women has remained just a slogan in these areas. What makes Neha's report powerful is the way the camera almost in an unobtrusive way becomes an expression of women's tales of woe and their fight for a new beginning. Neha’s is a wakeup call for all to fight this system and ensure a better society for women.

BEST ISSUE BASED RADIO PROGRAMME
94.3 MY FM | Rajasthan
Electronic Media
'Satakshi: save the girl child' is a 94.3 MY FM's initiative for the rescue and rehabilitation of an abandoned girl child. A little girl was found crying in a dustbin and the FM team helped finding her a home and mobilized sponsors for her education, medical aid etc. By presenting this true story in a song based format, encouraging the listeners to come up with a name for the child, sponsor her education etc., the programme managed to sensitise the listeners' towards girl child. The programme is successful in picking up an issue and taking it to a logical positive conclusion.

BEST PHOTO FEATURE
Sindhuja Parthasarathy | Karnataka
Web Media | The Alternative
Sindhuja Parthasarathy's story 'Mr and Mrs Koovagam' is her attempt to create awareness about the struggle of the transgender community for social and economic inclusion in the society. She writes about the Koothadavar festival of Koovagam village in Tamil Nadu as a modern struggle for gender identity finding expression in the hoary tradition of marriage and widowhood. Her visit to this village has led Sindhuja to an active engagement with many sexual minority groups.

BEST CAMPAIGN ON GIRL CHILD
Department of Sports and Youth Welfare, Government of Madhya Pradesh
Multi Media Campaign | Hum Chhuyenge Aasman
The 'Hum Chhuyenge Aasman' campaign of Madhya Pradesh Government is a comprehensive multi media campaign that promoted sports among girl children through various interventions. The well designed campaign had a direct impact on the participation and performance of girls in a number of sports events at state, national and international levels.

BEST ADVERTISEMENT-PRODUCT
Ogilvy and Mather
TVC | Adatein Mother and Son - Bournvita
The advertisement, 'Adatein: mother and son' shows a mother inspiring her child to greater heights by enhancing rather than subduing her own skills so that he actually 'competes' with her. It shows the mother having the confidence to step out of the home and be a high-energy, high-action role model for her child with a compelling message that a mother can bring out the best in her child by bringing out the best in her.

BEST ADVERTISEMENT- SERVICE
Lowe Lintas
Print | Bhagyalakshmi - LIC HFL
The advertisement for the Bhagyalakshmi Scheme of LIC for women's home loans is a path breaking one which highlights the right of a woman to own her own house independent of her father's house or husband's house. This is a particularly radical thought in a world where women own less than 1% of global property.

BEST PROGRAMME PROMO
Leo Burnett
TVC | Ladki Hui Hai - Kaun Banega Crorepati
The promo, 'Ladki hui hai' depicts the story of a woman fighting gender discrimination from birth to the Kaun Banega Crorepati chair. It sensitively showcases scenes of discrimination which are still everyday occurrences in most parts of India. Her triumph at the end and the never-say-die spirit all through the commercial is greatly inspiring to all women and particularly to parents of girls.
BEST INVESTIGATIVE STORY

Priyanka Vora | Maharashtra
Print Media | Hindustan Times

Priyanka Vora's story ‘Healthy meal: more out of reach for girls’ is an investigation into how girl children are denied basic nutrition thanks to society’s prejudices against them. Focusing on the slums of Mumbai she details what causes malnutrition - ranging from poverty to lack of knowledge about healthy food to children being born underweight due to repeated pregnancies of the mother. But what stands out is that even in such dire conditions, girls are discriminated against - more neglected, more malnourished and more underweight than boys who themselves are dangerously malnourished. Priyanka adds bits of information that tell the readers what they can do to help.

BEST BRAND PROMOTION

IBD India
TVC | She Can You Can - Saloni - Tupperware

The advertisement, ‘She can you can - Saloni’ celebrates women’s entrepreneurial and leadership skills to make a difference to the lives of other women. The inspirational story of Saloni draws a parallel between her and the increasing number of women who earn money and are empowered through the direct marketing of the Tupperware products.

TVC | Hindi | Hawa Badlegi - Court Marriage - Havells Fans

The series of ads speak about inclusiveness and are very sensitively crafted to highlight the need to initiate change to stop discrimination and inequality. The aspect of bringing out a breath of fresh air in societal norms is well highlighted in the entire campaign, with every commercial featuring both genders equally across generations, with the woman leading the conversation. Specifically, female empowerment is emphasized in the “Court Marriage” ad where a husband offers to take on his wife’s surname indicating a steep departure from the repressive traditions where a woman loses not just her surname but her identity as well on marriage.

“I am just a person trapped inside a woman’s body”.

Ms Rina Mukherji

Laadli has instituted the Laadli Extraordinaire Award in this fifth round of the Laadli Media and Gender Awards. The Award honors those journalists and media persons who have shown exemplary courage, tenacity, and commitment in fighting against gender violence and for gender justice.

The first Laadli Extraordinaire is being presented to Ms Rina Mukherji, who won after more than 10 years of relentless pursuit, her case challenging her illegal termination arising out of a complaint of sexual harassment at the workplace against the Statesman. The judgment, delivered by the Industrial Tribunal in Kolkata was the first such delivered in India, which ordered that she be reinstated with full back wages.

Theatre

Ramanjit Kaur

Baawre Mann Ke Sapne

The play ‘Baawre Mann Ke Sapne’ is an all women production enacted by homemakers who have gone through rigorous training of discipline of time, space and body, besides sessions on acting, communication etc. The protagonist Amma, an elderly woman decides to visit her daughter in London, and before this she gets together all the women in her family to share their stories — each being a ruthless commentary on the social evils that plague us to this day. Excerpts from various stories by Indian women writers like Jhumpa Lahiri, Lalitambika Antarjanam, dealing with tradition and skepticism, collective responsibility and individual choice, have been woven into the narrative.

Book Non-Fiction

Dr Lakhbir Kaur Verma

Desh Vibhajan Aur Naari Ki Trasadi

Lakhbir Kaur's book 'Desh Vibhajan aur Naari ki Trasadi' published in two volumes is an analysis of more than 40 novels and 100 short stories written in a number of languages during partition and post partition period. The author analyzes the projection of women in these writings and also the impact of the partition on women. What happened to the thousands of women during partition? Women who were violated, raped abducted? Women who were left homeless? Women who went missing? Children who were born out of rape? These were the questions which had driven the study but unfortunately the literature of one of the most traumatic periods of our history does not provide many answers.
Mrinal Kulkarni

Prem Manjhe Prem Manjhe Prem Asta!

The Marathi movie Prem Manjhe Prem Manjhe Prem Asta! directed by Mrinal Kulkarni brings out the nuances of changing gender equations by portraying the romance between two single parents, Anushree Pradham and Rohit Phadnis. Prem Manjhe.. while sensitively portraying Rohit as taking over the responsibilities of childcare and household responsibilities without any reservations or regret, also shows how Anushree, picks up the pieces and gets on with her life. The coming together of the two and the sudden appearance of their estranged spouses into their lives brings face to face the traditional expectations of the society from the woman to return to her husband and her desire to get on with her own life with her new companion. The portrayal of the mother-in-law who supports Anushree and not the absconding son, and the question that is raised by Anushree to Kedar - would he have accepted her if she were to have walked out of the marriage?, leave the audience questioning the gender stereotype that it is the responsibility of the woman to sustain the marriage even if the man is unfaithful to her.

Ms Shaukat Kaifi

Shaukat Kaifi's is a name that stands for seven decades of sincerity and dedication. A face that is remembered as Pagli in the play 'Pagli', as the black woman in 'Africa Jawan Pareshan', as Amma in 'Garm Hawa', as Ranjha's Bhabhi in 'Heer Ranjha', as the glamorous Khanam Jaan in 'Umrao Jaan', as Chuhia Begum in 'Anjuman', as the 'Madam' of the brothel in 'Salaam Bombay' and many more

She has played diverse characters - ranging from the meekest to the vilest person.

She showed the world glimpses of the reality of a woman's life, because she, being a social activist has seen closely the reality of women's lives in India.

Shaukat Kaifi had always been attracted towards theatre. Her theatrical journey began with Prithvi Theatre - playing various characters in plays like Deewar and Ahooti, 'Africa Jawan Pareshan', Naukrani Ki Talaash and Pagli. While with IPTA, Shaukat Kaifi acted in one of her most beautiful films, Garm Hawa in 1974 directed by M S Sathyu.

Later on she wrote a book on memoirs, "Yaad Ki Rehgujar", which was translated into Marathi, Hindi, Gujrathi, Japanese and in English as "Kaifi and I". A play based on this book "Kaifi aur Mai" is written by Javed Akhtar. This book is selected in 14 universities in USA as a referential for the South Asian Departments for rising above the personal and encompassing socio-cultural milieu of those times in a voice that is distinctly female.

She has lived her life the way every individual should, every Laadli should with freedom, equality and dignity.
Laadli Lifetime Achievement Award

Ms Lalitha Lajmi

A self-taught artist Lalitha Lajmi's journey in the world of art began as a young five year old participating in an art competition and winning the prize much to the amazement of everyone that a painting of that caliber could be done by so young a child. A true multi-tasker, Lalitha juggled her time teaching arts in a school during the day and devoting late hours to experimenting with her paintings. She used all mediums from pastels, to water colors to oils to etching on wood, lino, copper and moved from small sized canvases/paintings to large ones.

Lalitha Lajmi's life has always been a conflict between traditional values and modern ways of life. Her paintings portray women with mirrors – symbolizing self-reflections and masks, indicating how everyone puts on a mask to conceal their true feelings. Her focus has always remained on women and man-woman relationship. Her paintings are now exhibited all over the world.

Performance

The Creative Arts

The play 'Baawre Mann Ke Sapne' by The Creative Arts from Kolkata is an all woman production. The uniqueness of this project is that it uses theatre as therapy with homemakers who have gone through rigorous training of discipline of time, space and body, besides sessions on acting, communication, etc. The play consists of excerpts from various stories by Indian women writers which through improvisations have been woven together as one piece. While the original play is for an hour and a half the Group has taken a small segment of it and put it together for this event.
